

Photography and Filming Guidelines

We require that Whitehall, the Flagler Museum, or the story of Henry Flagler and his impact on the development of the state of Florida, be the primary focus of photo sessions.

Visitors may snap photos as personal keepsakes, however, flash photography, tripods, or any kind of camera support equipment is prohibited.

Formal or informal photography for personal projects or to mark special occasions is not permitted. This includes portrait sessions, engagement, birthday and graduation photography, school projects, and photography clubs. The general rule is that the Museum may not be used as a backdrop, to endorse or promote a product or service, or to support personal projects.

Social Media Influencers and Bloggers:

Photo shoots for social media or blogs are not permitted in the Museum without obtaining permission from the Public Affairs Director. Requests are handled on a case-by-case basis and must be received one week prior to visiting the Museum.

Professional Photographers/Videographers and Journalists:

Commercial photography/videography is not permitted at the Flagler Museum. Journalists who can verify their credentials may request a permit from the Public Affairs Director with advance notice, however requests are handled on a case-by-case basis.
