The Museum's Visitor Services team is available to answer any questions regarding the Museum's New Visitor Experience — including its "contactless" point of entry — and its Public Safety Protocols.

Visitor Experience and Tour Options

As part of the Museum's new protocols, visitors (both children and adults) touring the property are required to follow a one-way, fixed route. Due to social distancing guidelines, group and docent-led tours have been replaced with self-guided tour options. Visitors may choose either a paper brochure to read as they go through the Museum, or listen to a narrated tour on their own personal device by downloading the free Flagler Museum App. Complimentary earbuds will be provided if guests arrive without their own, and free Wi-Fi is available. For children, the Museum offers a printed "Tour and Activity Guide for Kids" with their admission.

The visitor experience includes the first and second floors of Whitehall, its grounds and the Flagler Kenan Pavilion, which houses Flagler's Railcar No. 91. The Exhibition Gallery on the second floor is open, as the Museum's Winter Exhibition, Walk This Way: Historic Footwear from the Stuart Weitzman Collection, has been extended until further notice. The exhibition, organized by the New-York Historical Society, explores how shoes have transcended their utilitarian purpose to become representations of culture — coveted as objects of desire, designed with artistic consideration, and expressing complicated meanings of femininity, power, and aspiration for women and men alike.

The Museum is accessible to all individuals, including those using wheelchairs and assistive devices.

Public Safety Protections

The Museum requires all visitors over the age of 2 to bring their own mask or face covering, which will be required for entry. Masks or face coverings must be worn at all times by all visitors as well as Museum staff members while on the Museum's property. Visitors will practice safe social distancing of 6 feet while in the presence of others.

In addition to the Museum's standard cleaning procedures, new measures to ensure sanitizing on a repetitive basis are in place for all high-touch surfaces. All restrooms have been modified to accommodate just one person at a time to ensure social distancing and sanitary conditions.

Hand-sanitizing stations are strategically placed throughout the Museum, including at points of entry and outside restrooms.

Socially-distanced Shopping at the Museum Store

For the comfort of our visitors, the Museum Store is now located in the vast West Room for those who are interested in socially-distanced, touch-free shopping. Merchandise is on display and Museum Store staff is available to assist shoppers with fulfillment and purchases. Credit cards only; cash will not be accepted until further notice. The Museum Store also offers curated packages, gift sets and jewelry for sale online at <http://www.flaglermuseum.us/museum-store>.
